

cover letter

Dear sir or madam,

I'm making contact with you in regards to the vacant position you have advertised on ethicaljobs.com.au about a Software Engineer.

I saw the position when browsing on ethicaljobs.com.au and, since I own an electric car, I couldn't help it but feel very familiar with the company as I use quite regularly ChargeFox chargers. I can introduce myself as a really great fit for the requirements listed in it, from the skills to the experience and, definitely, the attitude.

I attached my curriculum on my application so you can see on it how there is a lot I can bring for your company.

I've worked before in projects using very cutting-edge technologies within start-up-like companies and in more corporate-minded as well, phasing legacy systems, pushing the limits and progressing the technology to more sustainable stacks. Also you can see on my cv that I have extensive experience with frontend, backend and architecture on AWS plus mobile applications. I do prefer Vue to React, but they're not that different and if given the choice, I would pick Flutter rather than React Native any day of the week providing the full dev experience plus the final products are far beyond anything else out there in the mobile development realm. In addition, I have large experience on very complex and mission critical IoT systems. I understand the difficulties of firmware and the deployment and maintenance of distributed hardware as a service.

Because all of that, I do strongly believe that, thanks to my experience and skills, I am a very strong candidate to help you grow towards a more sustainable future.

Hoping to get to talk to you soon.

Best regards,

Marcos Morales Rodrigo
