I can describe myself as a highly polivalent IT professional, serious with my work, reliable, motivated, greatly experienced and skilled with superior attention to detail and proficent comunication skills to handle all the skateholder intercomunication needs.

I have been working in many different industries, companies and businesses adapting myself, acquiring new knowledge during the time and always, very soon, disrupting the place and methodologies to push it further with my analytical, creative and fresh point of view.

The IT industry has been my natural environment for many years and that has given me the experience and ability to create, improve and learn always the cutting edge technologies using the most modern methodologies, tools and skills.

I am the kind of worker that will always achieve results, aware about the deadlines, in the best way possible whenever it is inside of a team, leading the team or by myself. Obsessed with the perfection, scalability and usability of the final product and project I am involved, giving the final user the best possible service.
